

More Trouble in Senate for Civil Rights Measure

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's civil rights bill, with the key section stripped off by the Senate, ran into a new cross-fire today over a proposed amendment.

The jury trial proposal was called up hard on the heels of the 233rd vote by which the Senate late yesterday ripped out of the House-passed bill all enforcement authority except that to safeguard the right to vote.

The measure, as it now stands, would permit the attorney general to obtain federal court injunctions against violations or threatened violations of voting rights, but not to enforce other civil rights.

In the latter category, under decisions of the Supreme Court, fall racial integration in public school buses, swimming pools and other public places.

Authority to use injunctions to enforce these and other civil rights generally was erased from the bill with the adoption of an amendment offered by Senators Anderson (D-NM) and Aiken (R-S).

Thirty-four Democrats and 10 Republicans voted for the amendment, while 13 Democrats and 25 Republicans voted against it.

The next major test in the battle over the legislation began to shape up immediately when Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called up a jury trial amendment proposed by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo).

Under the bill, persons accused of violating injunctions obtained by the government could be convicted and jailed for contempt of court without a jury trial.

Senate Republican Knowland of California said in an interview he thought the amendment would be defeated and the bill's supporters could preserve its voting rights section intact.

He said the issue was not likely to come to a vote before the first of next week.

The adoption of the Anderson-Aiken amendment was a resounding victory for Southern foes of the legislation, but Sen. Javits (R-NY) said he hoped it would arouse civil rights supporters "to close ranks" and stand fast by the bill.

"Otherwise," he said in a statement, they are in grave danger of seeing the results of divide-and-conquer tactics. This could lead to a hollow-shell bill.

Other parts of the bill, not yet taken up for consideration, would establish a civil rights division in the Justice Department and create a bipartisan civil rights investigating commission, appointed by the President.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the Senate's vote gave "aid and comfort to those who would nullify the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment."

"In a very real sense," he said in a statement, "this action has said to the Supreme Court that the United States Senate is not willing to provide effective, time-tested machinery to implement the court's decisions."

Wilkins also contended the vote said "to Negro Americans that, so far as the Senate is concerned, they can expect little, if any, assistance from the federal government in attempt to win the enjoyment of their constitutional rights."

But both Anderson and Aiken said the adoption of their amendment increased the chances of passing a civil rights bill and lessened the possibility that Southern senators would try to filibuster it to death.

Just before the vote, Johnson told the Senate that the outcome might determine "whether we have a bill or no bill."

"The issue is simple," he said. "We can write an adequate bill to safeguard the right to vote. We can create a commission which can study the problems and return to us with recommendations."

"Or we can attempt to write a law new and drastic enforcement procedures to cover a wide variety of vaguely defined, so-called civil rights."

A strikingly different view was

British Keep Up Jet Attack Against Rebels

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The rebel-held fort at Nizawa, ancient capital of Oman, was the Royal Air Force's target for today as Britain kept up its jet-powered drive to put down an uprising against the Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

British jets firing rockets and machine guns flew 12 sorties against rebel tribesmen in the rugged desert region yesterday and claimed they gutted Ft. Izki, in the Wadi Halin area.

Officials in London said the use of ground troops in support of the British Sultan Said bin Taimur was not planned, but two companies of the Cameronian Rifles for Kenya arrived at the RAF's Sharjah base in Oman. The veteran campaigners were fully equipped for desert action.

Rebel spokesmen in Cairo claimed their forces had taken over most of the interior of the Arabian Peninsula sultanate and said many of the Sultan's followers were coming over to their side. They declared the Sultan now must depend on British support alone.

Bullet Fired at Mayor of Huntington

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Mayor Eugene Willis, who began carrying a gun but didn't do anything else about a core of threatening telephone calls because he didn't want to "dramatize himself," was shot at last night and narrowly missed.

A bullet fired gangland style from a passing automobile entered the open window of Willis' car, passed within an inch of his head and smashed into the closed window on the other side of the car.

He was approaching the driveway of his home about 10:40 p.m. when the single shot was fired.

A double shift of police officers scoured this Ohio River city all night in a concentrated search for the unknown assailant.

Mayor Willis, 24-years a funeral director and only seven months a politician, has been receiving threats for about six weeks. Last Friday, he obtained a permit from Common Pleas Court and began carrying a pistol.

Killing Time in Office Is Pretty Good Acting

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who loves the theater can have a wonderful time in the average business office just watching how its inhabitants kill time.

This form of free entertainment holds more dramatic interest than a trip to the theater because at a theater you can see only one play at a time. In the average office, however, you watch any where from 10 to 100 actors putting on individual shows at the same time.

Nor is office acting in any sense on a lower level than that seen on Broadway. Actually, it's far more subtle. Almost any showoff can be taught to step up on a stage and mouth a few memorized lines or gestures. But the acting skill shown by an office actor who is pretending to work while really only killing time re-

Sentence in Haircut Case Is Set Aside

By GENE KRAMER

TOKYO (AP) — U. S. Air Force commander today threw out the conviction of an airman who refused to get a "white sidewall" haircut, freeing him from four months at hard labor, a $200 fine and reduction in rank to private.

The airman, 20-year-old Donald Wheeler of Cortez, Colo., was convicted of "loitering in order." He claimed he had only "challenged" it and said today if given the order again "I'd probably refuse it would not be a legal order."

As for future haircuts, an Air Force officer said there's no longer any requirement on "white sidewalls"—prescribed for the Far East Command Honor Guard of which Wheeler was a member—because the unit has been disbanded. A "white sidewall" strips the head bare to the crown.

Col. Charles W. Johnstone of Reno, Nev., the base commander tossed out the conviction, saying he had found legal procedural errors in the summary court-martial that ended Monday.

The Highway Department has run out of cash and its operations have been curtailed.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett has ruled that money could and should be transferred from the fund by state officials. Bennett contends that no special legislative session is needed to approve the transfer.

But Gov. Orval Faubus has said he thinks it would require a legislative act to tap the $12 million dollar fund, and even then, the transfer would be void unless bondholders approve.

Akins said he believes bondholders will file suit for an injunction to halt any attempt to make the transfer.

"I don't see how the state could use the reserve funds and keep faith with its bondholders," he declared.

A Little Rock bondholder—who asked not to be quoted by name—said yesterday he thought any attempt to shift the money would be attacked in court. He said the battleground probably would be federal district court because so many of the bondholders live outside Arkansas.

The bondholder said "almost anyone who issues bonds is required to have enough... to pay at least one year's principal and interest. On the highway bonds, that takes $7,175,000, and Arkansas doesn't even have that much in the reserve fund now."

A Little Rock deal in securities said that digging into the reserve account without bondholders' permission might cause adverse repercussions to other Arkansas bond issues such as those concerned with school districts and municipalities.

Akins recalled the financial pinch in Arkansas during efforts in his administration to refund and sell 180 million dollars worth of highway bonds. Twice before he said the state had defaulted on its bonds—in 1932 and 1933.

The former governor said that the state could not make a deal with regular bond dealers but finally got the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to accept a reserve of five million dollars.

Sixteen persons were injured, a Hope man seriously, when a Meyer's bakery truck collided with a Midwest bus in a driving rain Wednesday morning, three miles south of Mineral Springs on State Highway 27.

Woodrow Baker, 39-year-old Hope driver, suffered a fractured hip and arm, multiple bruises and cuts and was in a severe state of shock in Memorial Hospital in Nashville. Fifteen persons in the bus were injured slightly, including the driver, Dick Pearce, 42, of Garland, Texas. The bakery truck was demolished and bus passengers said that Baker was thrown through the windshield and 15 feet into a ditch on impact.

The naked truck chassis may be seen at foot of the highway dump at left center in the picture—and the debris scattered over the ground used to be the truck's body.

Homer Atkins Hits Plan to Transfer Fund

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A proposal to dip into the state's highway bond reserve fund in order to help the Arkansas Highway Commission has drawn sharp criticism from former Gov. Homer M. Atkins.

"The fund is a solemn, sacred obligation of the state of Arkansas to its bondholders," Atkins said yesterday.

He said that taking money out of the fund not only would impair the state's contract with bondholders but might lower Arkansas' financial reputation.

Atkins was governor when the bond agreement was effect in 1941.

The Highway Department has run out of cash and its operations have been curtailed.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett has ruled that money could and should be transferred from the fund by state officials. Bennett contends that no special legislative session is needed to approve the transfer.

West Accused of Stalling Disarms Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Bulganin has accused the West of stalling the disarmament talks in an effort to aid West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's election campaign.

Bulganin included that accusation in a 6,000-word letter to British Prime Minister Macmillan made public last night. He also proposed that the United States and the European powers "pledge mutually to withhold held from any aggressor in Europe."

The Bulganin letter was a reply to a June 14 letter from Macmillan, which in turn had answered a previous Bulganin communication on international questions.

Linking the Sept. 15 West German election with the disarmament talks, Bulganin charged the West was prolonging the arms deadlock by bringing up "this or that political problem" in aid of Adenauer's re-election campaign.

"The statesmen of West Germany do not conceal... a deal has been made between the governments of certain Western powers and the Adenauer government," Bulganin declared.

FHA Officials to Visit Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Farmers Home Administration official will visit Arkansas next week to investigate flood disaster loan grants to farmers.

Dale H. Smith, deputy administrator of the FHA, said yesterday he does not expect any public meetings to be held during his visit.

Rep. J. W. Trimble (D-Ark), who has been seeking a more liberal loan policy from the FHA, said he was certain Smith could "find plenty of things that can be done."

Trimble has relayed to Congress the complaints of some Arkansas farmers that the FHA has made few loans even though stricken areas of the state got a disaster declaration.

FHA officials at Little Rock have denied that the agency is lagging on making loans.

East Gripped by Withering Drought

NEW YORK (AP) — A withering drought continued its grip on the eastern United States today, scorching some areas with the most severe damage in a quarter century.

Crop losses already had run into the tens of millions of dollars.

The parched region stretched from the Carolinas to Maine, inflicting its harshest punishment in southern New England, southern New York, New Jersey, Virginia and Maryland.

Spotty rains teased some sections this week, and temporarily eased the situation in Pennsylvania, but over most of the area, the scorching showers helped little, and no genuine rain was in sight.

Across the broad swath of the country, including major sources of fruits and vegetables for the populous east and much of the rest of the nation, crops drooped and shriveled.

Man Is Blown Out of Plane at 10,000 Feet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mysterious explosion near the washroom of an airliner where a passenger had lingered unusually long today blew the passenger to his death 10,000 feet over California's Mojave Desert.

The plane, a gaping hole in its side, landed safely. Its 12 other passengers and crew of 3 were unhurt.

The missing passenger, a San Fernando Valley jeweler who sold out recently, boarded the Los Angeles bound, twin-engine Convair 240 at Las Vegas where he had flown last night.

Eastern Airlines, which operated the craft, said the man took out a $125,000 round-trip insurance policy before leaving for Las Vegas last night.

Not long after the craft was airborne he went to the washroom at the rear of the plane. He lingered so long that one passenger was on the verge of calling the stewardess when the ship was shaken by a blast that tore a 4 by 7 foot hole in its right side opposite the washroom.

The passenger was S. F. Binstock, 62, of North Hollywood, Calif. No trace of him has been found.

The plane made a safe emergency landing at George AFB near Victorville in the Mojave Desert 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

Eastern Airlines officials expressed bafflement at the blast. They said there were no fuel lines or tanks or explosive of any kind near the washroom. Most of the baggage is stored near the front of the 40-passenger plane, although there is a small baggage compartment just to the rear of the washroom.

The FBI was called into the case at once and questioned passengers and crew at the airport. The passengers were brought by bus to Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An explosion blew a gaping hole in the fuselage of an airliner early today over the California desert. One passenger was missing and presumed dead.

The airliner — a twin-engine Western Air Lines Convair — made an emergency landing at George Air Force Base.

Western said that three crewmen and 12 other passengers aboard the plane, including an infant, were not harmed.

An airline official said the missing man apparently was blown out of the plane.

Defeat of School Measure Is Believed Certain

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House votes today on the $14-billion-dollar school construction bill amid predictions the measure will be killed.

But although many members said privately the measure had no chance, Rep. McConnell (R-Pa.), one of those leading the fight for it, said he still thought it had better than a 50-50 chance.

Opponents, during two days of debate, have emphasized the program's cost and what they refer to as the danger of federal control of schools.

Those favoring the bill contended that without federal aid, many states cannot afford the schoolrooms needed to educate the increasing numbers of school-age children.

Still to come was the issue of segregation.

Rep. Wainwright (R-NY) said he would offer an amendment to deny federal aid to school districts making no effort to obey the Supreme Court decision against segregation in the classroom.

The House killed a school aid bill last year after adopting a similar amendment by Rep. Powell (D-NY).

Rep. Lanham (D-Gn) predicted that even if no anti-segregation provision is written into the bill, the same effect would be obtained — if the bill is passed by injunction or by executive order.

"I think everyone knows we aren't going to get any of this money in the South," he said.

The House considered, but did not vote on, a proposal yesterday by Rep. Scrivener (R-Kan) to return 1 per cent of the federal income and corporate taxes collected in each state to that state for aid to education, including school construction.

American Bar Group Raps Court Ruling

LONDON (AP) — The American Bar Association's Committee on Communism warned today that efforts to combat Communist infiltration may be endangered "if the courts lean too far backward in the maintenance of theoretical individual rights."

The committee called for legislation "to overcome the effect of Supreme Court decisions" of the past 15 months, including laws to "safeguard the confidential nature of the FBI files."

The committee's report was issued as the 5,000 delegates to the association's 80th annual convention—being held in both New York and London this year—split up into discussion groups today.

The committee said: "It is traditional and right that our courts are jealous in protecting individual rights. It is equally necessary that the executive and legislative branches take effective action to guard our country against Communist infiltration and aggression."

"If the courts lean too far backward in the maintenance of the theoretical individual rights, it may be that we have tied the hands of our country and have rendered it incapable of carrying out the first law of mankind—the right of self preservation."

The report was a direct slap at U. S. Chief Justice Earl Warren, under whose leadership the court has taken a "liberal" trend and who has sided with the majority on most of the controversial decisions in recent months, Warren is attending the convention.

Shreveport to Quit Texas Loop Baseball

DALLAS (AP)—The future of the Texas League is quite clouded except that it's certain the Shreveport franchise won't be operated any more under its present ownership.

That was the only positive information to come out of the summer meeting of the Class AA circuit held yesterday. What, if any, clubs are likely to be drafted as a result of the movement of major league franchises to the West Coast couldn't be conjectured. The league can only wait until October when these movements are expected to start.

But Eneane Peters, 69-year-old president of the Shreveport club, told newspapermen that the Shreveport franchise would be sold because "we're tired of seeing 500 or 600 people in the park for ball games."

Heroin Cache Found on French Ship

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A heroin cache described as the largest found in the United States in "many years" was seized last night aboard a French freighter by federal agents.

Merrill D. White, U. S. customs collector for Florida, estimated value of the powdered narcotic at $700,000. It weighed 9½ pounds. White said a tip sent 15 to 20 searchers aboard the ship after she docked at Port Everglades, Fort Lauderdale's seaport, Saturday.

4-H Clubs Name State Officers

FAVETTEVILLE (AP)—Randall Wilson of Clay County today was elected president of the Arkansas 4-H Clubs, succeeding James Jones of Pulaski County.

Other officers included Mary Sue Helms of Clark County, secretary; Sandra Carter of Baxter County, reporter; and Sue Kuester of Garland County, song leader.

About 1,000 boys and girls from all counties in Arkansas are attending the week-long convention here.

Five vice presidents from each of the 4-H districts were elected today. They included Ann Curlee of Pulaski County, Betty Townsend of Crawford County, Gloria Jean Adams of Miller County, Carl Elder of Poinsett County and Sara Job Penhaley of Sevier County.

Adult leaders chosen last night were Mrs. Layd Hullett of Swift County, president; Mrs. Leon Allen of Sheridan, secretary-treasurer; and five district vice presidents—Mrs. B. J. Holland of Huntsville, Mrs. C. E. Sharp of Mountain Home, Mrs. Marvin Lattin of Marianna, Mrs. Fowler Clayton of Warren and Dean Adkins of De Queen.

Linda Maddox, 14-year-old white County 4-H club member, won the annual dress review last night with a 3-piece playsuit she made at a cost of $4.60.

Faubus Says Road Program Is Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Gov. Orval Faubus today he was recently told by the Arkansas Highway Commission that planned state road projects may be delayed as much as two years because of a fund shortage.

The governor, who has been vacationing in Newton County, and at Harrison that "what the people need to know is that transfer of three million dollars won't solve the problem or cure the situation."

Faubus had said last week that the Highway Commission asked for an additional 10 million dollars for its long range program.

Highway Director Herbert Eldridge commented here that he did not know just how many millions would be involved in the fund shortage.

"We do not have state funds to which all available federal fund and that will be true throughout the biennium," Eldridge said.

Eldridge estimated that "we will finish with 10 million dollars at the end of the biennium June 30, 1959. Ordinarily this amount would be matched dollar for dollar by state funds," Eldridge said.

Eldridge said the proposed transfer of the three million dollars from the state reserve fund "would keep us in the black. We would be able to meet our debt."

Eldridge said that "if it is the decision of the Highway Commission to give interstate highways priority then it means that the volume of work in other categories will suffer a 20 million dollar work volume loss" in the next two years.

The highway director said this does not mean work will not be done in the other categories—primary, secondary and urban road projects.

Faubus said at Harrison that his fiscal experts were studying the feasibility of the state reserve fund transfer but he said it would not even "begin to solve their (the Highway Department's) problems."

Faubus said the Highway Commission recently informed him "they could not put men back to work who had been laid off and neither could they let contracts on primary and secondary roads anywhere in the state for at least 12 months, and perhaps 24 months."

The governor, staying at a rural home 20 miles south of Harrison, said he expects to return to Little Rock Monday after "my first real vacation since becoming governor."

out through the side of the plane. The blast ripped a 7 by 4 foot hole in the side of the airliner, bound here on a flight that originated in Minneapolis. Its last stop was at Las Vegas, Nev.

Western tentatively identified the missing man as S. F. Binstock, of North Hollywood.

Western said cause of the blast was not known. The FBI is investigating.

The explosion blasted open the airliner's fuselage on the right side at the washroom, the rear of the passenger compartment. The missing man was in the washroom at the time of the explosion.

An airline official said the blast came 47 minutes after the plane—Western's flight 39—had lifted from the runway at Las Vegas.

The plane's pilot, Capt. Milton Shirk, of Los Angeles, radioed to Western headquarters at International Airport here that he had had "an emergency."

Later he reported: "The right rear side of the aircraft has been blown out. I'm going into George Air Force Base."

Worker Escapes as Dynamite Blows

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Oswal Jones, 27, a Perryville explosives worker, escaped with minor injuries yesterday when lightning prematurely touched off a dynamite charge in a rock quarry near here.

A quarry official said Jones, the firm's dynamite foreman, was arranging the last of a number of charges when the blast struck.

Debris partially buried Jones but several other workmen in the area were untouched.

Jones was hospitalized at Little Rock with cuts and bruises, and attendants said he may have suffered a broken rib.

The quarry is located two miles west of Little Rock Air Force Base on state Highway 5.

Life of Military Policeman Rough

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A young Arkansas soldier was recovering today from his first day as a military policeman.

It was a tough day.

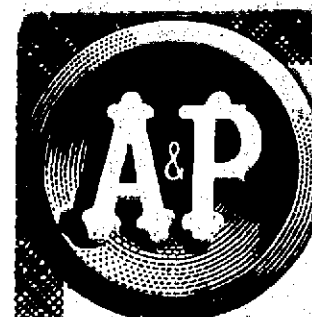

William F. Hardke, 19, of Hazen, was shipped as he and a companion walked down Poydras Street Beach shortly after Hardke arrived at Camp Leroy Johnson here from Fort Gordon, Ga.

Hardke was stabbed several times with a knife when a gang of teenagers attacked the pair. However, hospital attendants said his wounds are not believed serious.

Army officials said the stabbing may have been prompted by other soldiers who resent military police.

Two soldiers were held as suspects.

Hardke completed MP training at the Georgia camp only a few days ago.

Popularity of Country Music Is Spreading

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—A big development in entertainment recently is the widespread popularity of country music.

Word comes that Jimmy Dean's country music show, which moves into an important Saturday night slot for the summer on CBS-TV, will remain there next season.
CBS Radio recently launched a new "Country Music Show" on Friday evenings. NBC Radio presents "Grand Ole Opry" Saturday evenings.

ABC-TV is offering two country music shows: "Midwest Hayride" on Sunday evenings and "Country Music Jubilee" on Saturday evenings.

Cash Box, trade publication for the juke box industry, lists eight country music numbers among its latest top 35 most popular music box tunes. The Cash Box lists 60 tunes, compiled from retail sales, lists even more.

What is country music and what is the source of its popularity?
Miles Foster of ABC-TV came up with a good description the other day:

"Country music is the only current form of folk music which from the beginning of this country was the most important form of expression and communication. It was the music by which people could speak of the work they did, the things and places and people they loved, the needs they felt."
"Country music carries on this tradition. The unknown folk composers of yesterday have become the country music composers of today. In country music it is the name rather than the composition that reaches the people."

"The fiddle followed closely behind the rifle as America moved west in the 18th Century. On the basis of old world folk tunes the settlers improved their own music. Lyrical themes mingled with the melancholy induced by wilderness life."
"But the country music of today has come a long way from 'Turkey in the Straw' and 'Leather Britches.' It's quite a hybrid."
If a Howard, associate editor of Cash Box, believes that Elvis Presley, primarily renowned as a "rock 'n' roll" singer, was the most important factor in bringing country music into the limelight, he and others like him used basic country music themes and brought it to a "bat" which youngsters like,

Makes Living Taking Photos of Sexy Gals

By PATRICK MCNULTY
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Peter Gowland earns $40,000 a year snapping sexy pictures of scantily clad movie beauties in his living room. Now, men, doesn't that sound like an ideal way to earn a living?

"It certainly is," confirms Gowland, "and my wife thinks so, too."
His wife, Alice, who acts as his assistant, puts it this way:
"It's nice to see a man do what he likes."

During the past 10 years, Gowland, 41, has built a reputation as one of Hollywood's best photographers of glamour and sex. The loveliest lasses in movieland beat a path to his modern studio-home in Santa Monica about a mile from the ocean.

The model and photographer must work in a relaxed atmosphere. That's why Gowland thinks his home is ideal. In addition to an elaborate studio in the house, the woodsy three-quarter acre site offers many natural props—a running stream, huge gnarled trees, a colorful garden.

To break any picture-taking tension, Gowland frequently calls a recess for a plunge in the patio pool.

He usually hires his models, paying $25 an hour to $250 a day depending on the girl and the picture.

Studios are anxious for him to photograph their stars for free. They realize a Gowland pin-up often gets wide play in magazines and newspapers.

Good models are hard to find, Gowland said, and there is a constant demand for new faces and figures. His current favorite is Sandra Edwards, a raven-haired 19-year-old mother.

"Most of my best models have children," he said. "Motherhood seems to enhance their beauty."
Gowland is a son of Gibson Gowland, the late British actor who starred in the silent film, "Greed."

"I grew up in the movie industry," Gowland said. "Worked eight years as an extra and double before I got established in photography."

He got his start taking pictures of stars around the sets and selling them. Ten years ago, he and Alice, a former secretary, rented a rickety studio in West Los Angeles.

"Alice does most of the paper work and I concentrate on taking the pictures," said Gowland, "and it's easier than most people think."

Water Pours Over Spillway at Bull Shoals

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Water is tumbling down the spillway at Bull Shoals dam on the White River in north Arkansas for the first time since the dam was completed five years ago.

The Army engineers here said more than 2,000,000 acre-feet of water, which was stored following heavy rains in April, May and June, are being released in regulated quantities of about 30,000 acre-feet a day. This is to keep the lower White River within bankful stages.

On June 19, the reservoir reached to within a half foot of the top of the gates on the spillway, the all-time high mark for the dam. The previous high was in 1953 when the water rose about three feet above the top of the power pool and about 38 feet below the top of the gates.

The Army engineers said the water elevation was 37.3 feet higher this year than the previous record year of 1953.

Releases of water from the reservoir are made over the spillway, through conduits at the base of the dam, and through the hydroelectric turbines in the powerhouse. The cold water released

Warren's survivors include his widow, three daughters and two sons.

More than 4,000,000 acre-feet of water was stored by Bull Shoals Dam and upstream at the yet uncompleted Table Rock Dam, preventing serious flooding conditions on the lower White. The engineers estimated that about $4,000,000 damage was prevented by water

DOROTHY DIX

Whole Family Against This Girl's Marriage

Dear Dorothy Dix: My niece, a beautiful girl of 18, is about to contract a marriage that the whole family opposes. The boy, just a few years older than she, doesn't even have a month's rent and is precariously engaged in business with another lad. He is of a different religion—in fact is against any religion.

My niece has had many boy friends, has been in and out of love a dozen times. Why she decided this was the boy to marry, we can't understand. Can we say anything to make her change?

AUNT HILDA
Dear Aunt Hilda: When two young people decide to cast their futures together, all the family opposition in the world can't stop them. Love is obstinate as well as blind. It may be of comfort to the mourning relatives to remember that many marriages have survived even worse obstacles and been successful.

I would suggest one more frank, round table discussion between the tack the day before yesterday's work.

2. The Prowling Ferret—With brows knit in agonizing thought, hands locked behind his back, he stalks endlessly around the office as if in search of one single answer to all the firm's problems. His box score at nightfall: 20 trips to the water cooler, 7 to the men's room.

3. The Dubious Lover—This married Romeo, holding a business letter in his hand as a prop, goes from stenographer to stenographer, whispering, "Next year I'll take you to Havana but right now how about a weekend in Philadelphia." But if one of the girls really took him up on his proposition, he'd melt away faster than the abominable snowman.

4. The Harried Debtor—He rolls up his sleeves and buries himself up to his armpits in a pile of important papers on his desk. He keeps a wary eye, however, so that no one can peek over his shoulders and see that the papers consist of his personal bills, his household budget, his state and federal income tax returns, and a small pamphlet entitled, "Ten Easy Ways To Pay Off A Home Mortgage."

5. The Lonely Heart—Believing that two can act better than one, he goes over to the other fellow's desk and asks him-nonsense questions such as, "Do you think the light in here is ruining our eyes?" or, "If you could retire right now, where would you want to live?"

6. The Dull Cowbird—This witless pest doesn't have enough originality to invent his own methods of shirking work, so he imitates the others. But he does it so poorly that he endangers the whole office, and everyone has a desire to poison him.

7. The Daredevil—Figuring that all life is merely a bold bluff, this wily gambler does no work at all. But after sitting for two hours with both feet on his desk, he struts into the boss's office at 11 a.m., and says cheerfully, "All clear, chief what can I do for you now?"

There they are—seven office characters in search of an audience. And in case the boss should suddenly choose to death on a martini olive during an important business luncheon, which of these seven career timekillers will get his job?

Naturally, the best actor wins. Nine out of 10 times The Daredevil will become boss—if he isn't fired first.

pounds overweight! Do you think there could be a father woman?
HENRIETTA
Dear Henrietta: What would be your reaction if your son's friends began telling you how beautiful you are? Now don't tell me you wouldn't be flattered.
Since you know what your husband eats up, feed it to him! You can't flatter as the next girl. Tell him his lotion smells nice, but you think the X brand is nicer. Buy it for him. Don't ridicule, don't question. Outdo the competition!

Dear Dorothy Dix: After 25 years of marriage, my husband is beginning to change. He's a good-looking man and my daughter's girl friends often remark to him that he's very handsome. He just eats this up.

Now he's taken to all sorts of lotions and afters, and is even going on a diet because he's five years older than I am. I'm not a young pair and the girl's parents. Let the parents point out every difficulty, then agree to go along with the marriage if they can't prevent it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My widowed mother-in-law lives in her daughter's house. We visit there at least once a week. Every time we go, my mother-in-law manages to get my husband alone so she can whisper to him. Naturally it makes me feel like an outsider.

IMogene
Dear Imogene: Handling marital situations like this is what separates the girls from the women. A silly girl of small under standing would resent it. A mature wife (mature in intelligence, not in age) of compassion and perception will realize how important these few isolated moments can be to a lonely mother.

Don't begrudge them to her. Be big enough to share your man. And always remember, you may be a mother-in-law yourself one day.

He is now being sought by the FBI for his role in the kidnapping of a federal prisoner.

CHAPTER X

Blanchard nodded and took Dick's hand. They walked around the house. Lillian walked to the back step and sat down. I went over and sat on the edge. It didn't look to me like Lillian was going to say anything about Cole. She said, "You're old enough now to take care of yourself." I grinned at her. "Been doing that for quite some time, ma'am." "But not in something like this. Pike, I understand why you want to help him. He's a man of great reputation. It must be fine to be with him. But has he told you everything that might happen?" "I know what I'm getting into, ma'am." "You'll have more trouble from got to see, it's not just me or you against the Clements and Cole. It's not like we're all alone. We got Barney Blanchard!" She put her hand on my shoulder. "Pike, he's one man. Maybe they wouldn't have taken Pike off the train if they'd known Blanchard was on it. But his reputation can't help now." "It's not just reputation," I said, feeling stubborn. "You got to see that, ma'am. You don't have to worry about Dick or anything. You help us and Blanchard'll watch out for you." Lillian let herself down to the step. She sighed. "Perhaps, Pike. Perhaps. For as long as he lives." "He'll live longer than anybody in this tinhorn town, ma'am."

I sat wondering what I could say to get Lillian on our side. If she knew Blanchard better, I thought, she'd trust him. I didn't think that the Clements wanted to tangle with Blanchard. Eric was smart. He liked the odds strong on his side, the way they were before Blanchard hit town. Maybe the odds were still good enough to suit him. I tried to think of something else that might be bothering Lillian. I knew she depended on the town for her living. She did sewing, never lacking for customers that I could see, and I knew a lot of women came because they felt sorry for her. I'd wondered why she stayed in Blue Springs. It didn't look to me like she'd find another husband in the town. I didn't know of a man big enough to try to fill Barney Jethroe's shoes, much as they'd like to, when they knew Dan Clement had his eye on her. I knew Lillian thought it was better for Dick in Blue Springs. He was Barney's son and the town wouldn't forget it. Everything Dick did was right because he was Barney Jethroe's boy. Everything I did was wrong because I was the son of Chad Ambrose. It didn't make a whole lot of sense.

CATCHING UP TO MOMMY—Mary Ann Milano is only a year old and stands 20½ inches tall, but she already is waist-high to her 3-foot, 7-inch mother, Trinidad Milano. Joseph Milano, measuring his daughter with a yard stick, is 4 feet, 7 inches tall. At bath time, Daddy has to take over as the 21-pound Mary Ann is just too much for her mother to handle. The Milanos, formerly in show business, settled in Cleveland six years ago. Mary Ann, a normal size child, was born eight years after the Milanos were married.

I was about ready to give up and go when Lillian turned to me. "Pike, I hope Barney Blanchard is everything you say. Dan said that Cole is coming tonight." Excitement hopped into my throat. "On the train?" "Probably. Cole hated to ride." I got up, anxious to tell Blanchard. "Much obliged, ma'am. Don't you worry now." I went around the house. Blanchard was telling Dick something about Pilot's forelegs. When he saw me, he stopped talking and lapped Dick on the rump and sent him scurrying around the house.

We went out into the street and moved east slow, leading Pilot and Goliath. "She said Cole is coming tonight. They got to wait for him," I told him.

"She said that?" "Sure she did. Not exactly, though. Dan doesn't tell her everything."

Blanchard tied Pilot to the rack in front of the livery. "She was married to Barney Jethroe. From what you say about Barney, that woman's got reason to want Dorsey dead."

"Women don't do that! Maybe a man but not."

I shut up, it coming to me fast that I was shooting off youth. I didn't know about women. I was beginning to wonder if I even knew about Lillian.

Blanchard said, "You say she's all right, Pike. I won't forget. But don't you forget she's Barney's widow." (To Be Continued)

President Not Satisfied With School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leader Joseph Martin said today President Eisenhower is "not entirely satisfied" with the 1½-billion-dollar school aid bill but probably would accept it if Congress passes the measure.

Martin said, however, "the outlook is not too good" for passage by Congress of the compromise measure. House debate begins today.

The Massachusetts Republican spoke with newsmen at the White House after he and other GOP congressional leaders had held their weekly conference with Eisenhower.

The House bill would provide federal funds to the states for school construction over the next five years. It differs in several respects from an administration bill which would provide $1,200,000,000 in grants to the states over a four-year period.

Three was no indication after today's meeting that Eisenhower would wage a personal campaign in favor of the school bill. Some members of Congress have been saying he would have to do so to get the bill passed.

Martin said he didn't know whether Eisenhower would play an "active role" in trying to get the bill enacted.

"While he is not entirely satisfied with the legislation as it comes out of the (Education) committee, he regards it as a state," Martin said.

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A compromise 1½-billion-dollar school construction bill headed for an uncertain fate on the House floor today.

"If we don't get a bill this year, we won't get any," Rep. Kelley (D-Pa.), author of the compromise, told a reporter. "This is the second try."

The House defeated a similar measure last year 224-194 after first tacking on an anti-segregation amendment.

Twelve Democratic members of the House Education Committee sent a telegram to President Eisenhower urging him to make "an extraordinary appeal forthwith" to Republican House members on behalf of the measure.

The Democrats said they were confident that "a solid majority" of Democrats would support the bill as they did last year.

"The pending bill contains all the main features which you recommended in your message last January," the telegram said.

"It is apparent that a shift of only a handful of Republican votes will mean success this year."

Dixie Senators Are Due Credit

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the story of how three Southern senators found three big talking points to cause division and surprise among supporters of President Eisenhower's civil rights bill.

There would see hardly any reason for surprise if members of Congress, North and South, had done their homework by reading a lawbook for no more than 30 minutes.

The three Southerners who developed the talking points, all Democrats, are Senators Russell (Ga.), Ervin (NC) and Eastland (Miss.). They got a big helping hand from Robert Young, a lawyer on the staff of Eastland's Judiciary Committee.

Their three points:

Russell—This bill would permit the President to use troops to back up court orders in civil rights cases. Eastland—under this bill people could be compelled to be informers. Ervin — The bill would deprive a man of trial by jury.

This is the background for what follows:

There is an old 1871 law—called Section 1885—should be amended to let the attorney general step in and ask for a court order to stop a civil rights violation. Anyone disobeying could be tried for contempt by the judge, without jury trial, and sent to jail.

If you took the trouble to go into a law library and ask the clerk to let you see the civil rights laws, you'd find three pages of them listed together in what is called the U.S. Code—meaning a collection of laws still on the books.

Two of them apply directly to Section 1885 and therefore—since the Eisenhower bill would amend Section 1885 by adding new powers to it—they would apply to the bill if it became law.

One says the President can use troops to back up a court order issued under Section 1885; the other says—and it's called the "Compulsory Informer Act"—that anyone even knowing of a conspiracy to violate a person's civil rights under Section 1885 must tell the government or face damages.

But when Atty. Gen. Brownell appeared before the House Judiciary Committee in 1956 and 1957—when the bill was being considered—no one questioning him asked about the use of troops and compulsory informers.

When the House passed the bill in 1956 and again in 1957, both times after lengthy debate, no mention was made of the use of troops and informers in connection with the bill.

House members made their big pitch on the trial-by-judge issue this year, but only after Ervin had been talking about it in the Senate for months. It was Ervin himself who made this a prime issue.

But it was different when Brownell appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Young had taken the trouble to look up the old civil rights laws which—in addition to Section 1885—might be affected by Eisenhower's bill.

He told Ervin, Ervin let Young question Brownell about the use of troops and how it was directly tied in with the old law to be amended. Brownell blew up, refused to discuss it, even when Ervin chimed in, and said it was an affront to the President.

Maybe Brownell was truly surprised. It's possible he didn't look up the old laws either, and simply had relied on lawyers in his Justice Department to draw up the Eisenhower bill.

Russell, in reading over the record of the Senate Judiciary Committee, noted Young's questioning of Brownell on troops. He asked Young for more information. Young gave him a detailed explanation.

On July 2 Russell made a biting speech against the bill noting the use-of-troops lie-in with it, and denounced it as cunning and devious. This even seemed to be news to Eisenhower, who then began to act puzzled about his bill.

Meanwhile, Young told Eastland of the tie-in between the Eisenhower bill and compulsory informers. Eastland on July 11 made savage attack on the bill, pointing up the compulsory informer angle.

Yesterday the Senate voted unanimously to repeal the old law on the use of troops.

SPEEDY—Hot service with a cooling treat is the aim of teenager Sharon Anderson, who uses roller skates in her work as a waitress at a Chicago ice cream stand. Sharon, who claims the skates make her job more fun, and cooler, too, wheels around even behind the counter. Her employer, who resisted the idea at first, finally gave in to the 17-year-old.

the prostration of Sugar Ray Robinson in his 1952 fight with Joey Maxim.

Courchesne, who weighed 132 pounds to Bell's 131½, was floored by rights to the chin twice, once in the fifth round and once in the seventh. But he was strong in the eighth.

As he sat on his stool, after the action in the eighth, he suddenly stiffened and went into a convulsion. The doctors gave him smelling salts and oxygen to revive him. They said there was no need for hospitalization.

Because referee Percy Seazio stopped the bout before the bell could ring to start the ninth session, the ending was a eighth-round technical knockout under New York state rules. Courchesne, who appeared to have an edge in the first three rounds, the sixth and eighth, was ahead on two of the three official score cards when he collapsed.

Bell said today, "certainly I felt the heat. It was terrific. But that wasn't the only cause of his collapse. I think my body shots took their toll, too."

Betting was at "even money" when they entered the ring.

Courchesne, who suffered his defeat and fifth kayo in 61 fights, cancelled a bout with Leon Negro at Caracas, Venezuela, scheduled for Aug. 5.

Charges Court Martial Used Its 'Rank'

By JOHN ZIMMERMANN

TOKYO, (UP)—Murray Sprung, New York civilian attorney, said today the four-officer court martial board which convicted Airmah Donald Wheeler couldn't see the forest for the trees because of the difference in status and rank.

"The only thing they could see was an enlisted man who dared talk back to an officer," he said.

Sprung said, "I do not think there is the same degree of justice for the enlisted man as there is for the officer."

Wheeler, of Cortez, Colo., was found guilty Monday and sentenced to four months imprisonment at hard labor and a $200 fine for refusing to obey an order by his commanding officer when he was a member of the honor guard at the United Nations Far East Command headquarters in Tokyo.

He was ordered to get an honor guard-type haircut which consisted of closely trimmed sides with a fringe on the top. The haircut became known as a white sidewall because the skin showed through at the sides.

Sprung said that of the lieutenant colonel, two majors and a captain who sat on the special court martial board, only one was capable of asking an intelligent question.

"The minds of the panel were closed," he said.

The 20-year-old Wheeler currently is serving his four months at Fifth Air Force headquarters at Fuchu near Tokyo.

Wheeler charged that his former honor guard commanding officer, Wash., was out to "get" him. Wash., was out to "get" him.

Short, however, testified at the court martial that Wheeler was trying to "goof off" so he would have his request for a transfer out of the unit approved.

the ending was a eighth-round technical knockout under New York state rules. Courchesne, who appeared to have an edge in the first three rounds, the sixth and eighth, was ahead on two of the three official score cards when he collapsed.

Bell said today, "certainly I felt the heat. It was terrific. But that wasn't the only cause of his collapse. I think my body shots took their toll, too."

Baker Takes a Pounding From Machen

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Bob Baker, his face puffed from Eddie Machen's whiplash left jab and neat right-hand misdirection puffed from sailing high on the hog, says he's through with fighting.

In an unusual dressing room scene after the piddling Pittsburgh trial bout, a lopsided 10-round nationally televised decision to Machen in Chicago Stadium last night, Baker said:

"I've lost the will to fight. This is my last fight. I'm fed up. I couldn't fight, duck or anything against Machen. I just walked in and—bam!—got hit."

Then Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender who is waiting in the wings for a shot at champion Floyd Patterson, walked in to shake Baker's hand. Baker, who is 31, said:

"You're a good fighter, Eddie. I didn't give you much out there. But I can give you some advice. You won't ever win the title unless you learn to be a body puncher. You stand up straight and swing away at the head. Guys can go right up to you. If you had some for my body some of the time, I probably couldn't have

Cards Chill Brooklyn to Even Important Series

By ED WILKS
Of The Associated Press

It was in the first game of the 1955 spring exhibition series that Larry Jackson led a parade of four rookie pitchers who one-hit the New York Yankees 1-0 in an eight sports writers thumbing through rosters and brochures trying to find out something about the St. Louis Cardinal youngsters.

Brooklyn's Dodgers are still trying to find out something about the trim right-hander. After 2 1/2 seasons, all they know is that he's beaten them seven times in nine decisions.

The kid from Idaho, who jumped from the bullpen to become the Cards' ace this season, made it five in a row over the champs last night with a three-single, 3-0 job that hoisted the Cards within half a game of the third-place Braves.

The National League race tightened up again all along the line as Philadelphia defeated first-place Milwaukee 3-1 with rookie Jack Sanford winning his 13th on a five-hitter. Joe Nuxhall gave up eight hits, but blanked Pittsburgh for a 2-0 Cincinnati victory. And the Cubs' Don Eason out-dueled Johnny Antonelli for a 2-1 Chicago victory over the New York Giants.

All of which left the Braves in front by one game over Brooklyn, with St. Louis third 1 1/2 back, Cincinnati fourth two games shy and the Phillies fifth 3 1/2 behind.

In the American League, southpaw Billy Pierce remained the majors' biggest winner with his 14th victory as the second-place Chicago White Sox trimmed the New York Yankees 7-2. Boston beat Kansas City 6-5. Cleveland defeated Washington 4-3, then lost the second game of the two-night pair 6-5. Detroit dumped Baltimore 5-1.

Jackson, who was only 2-2 last season but "saved" 13, won his 11th on the fourth try while striking out eight and walking only two. The 26-year-old six-footer instated.

The 25-year-old battler from San Francisco has 22 straight triumphs to his credit. He was outswung by the hulking Baker 100 to 214 pounds.

Referee Walter Brightmore, who exhorted Baker to "make a fight of it" several times, voted for Macken, 50-40, the same as Judge Jim McManus. Judge John Bray didn't allow a runner past second base.

Sal Maglie was the loser against the Cards for a 4-3 season record. Al Dark had two triples for the Redbirds. He scored two runs.

Sanford, 28, struck out eight and walked two while handing the Braves their second defeat in the last nine games. The right-hander gave up four singles and West Covington's ninth home run. Gene Conley lost it, giving up an RBI double to Sanford that scored the clincher in the seventh.

The Redlegs had only six hits off Bob Friend, but handed the Buc right-hander a 13th defeat when two-out singles by Johnny Temple, Gus Bell and Frank Robinson and an error scored two in the third inning.

The Cubs went out hit 8-7, but scored the winning run on Jim Bolter's sacrifice fly in the fifth. Pierce, who has lost seven, got a 3-0 lead in the first inning thanks to Jerry Coleman's two-run error and coasted in blanking Mickey Mantle. Luis Aparicio had three singles and a triple in the Sox's 13-hit attack, which shelved Whitford Ford in the third.

A sacrifice fly by Ted Williams capped a six-run outburst by the Red Sox in the fourth inning against loser Ralph Terry. Sam Rice had a two-run single in the frame. Tom Brewer won his 12th, striking the last 10 men in order after Woody Field's two-run homer in the sixth.

Two-run ninth innings decided both games at Washington. The Tribe beat Camilo Pascual, a three-hit, shutout winner, over Cleveland in his last start, with three singles and sacrifice flies by Joe Altobelli and St. Smith in the opener. Lou Berberet got off a two-run pinch homer against Earlz Wynn (13-11) to win the brighten as Chuck Stobbs (4-13) made it three in a row over the Indians despite two homers by Smith.

Paul Foytack four-hit the Orioles and drove in the tie-breaking run with a single in a four-run seventh inning against Billie Loos, now 10-5.

Southland Wants a 50-Day Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney says Southland Racing Corp. wants permission to open its West Memphis dog track for an additional 50 days beginning Aug. 28.

Cheney, ex-official secretary of the Arkansas Racing Commission, said yesterday that the commission would rule on the request at a meeting in West Memphis next Wednesday.

Southland launched its 1957 season under an old law which did not require approval of racing dates by the commission. However, a 1957 law which became effective July 1 limits a dog track to two 50-day meets annually and requires commission approval of dates.

The firm's request for the second 50-day meet, if approved, would extend the season to Oct. 24.

Scouting reports claim righthander Joey Jay is the most improved pitcher in the minors. Which means he should be changing his baseball address from Wichita to Milwaukee before too long.

Ball players have tried a thousand different ways to improve their hitting but Senator Infielder Milt Bolling wins the award for originality. He practiced punching a bag several hours a day to help his coordination. Claims it did the trick, too.

White Sox Coach Tony Cuccinello is the best sign stealer in the American League, according to sharp-eyed Casey Stengel.

Glenn Ford Did Go on Party — in High School

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Glenn Ford did go on a beach party with a young girl, as one of the scandal magazines recently reported.

"But," adds Glenn, "the magazine made one serious error of omission. The incident described took place in 1935 when I was a student at Santa Monica High School and practically every student in the school—or any other high school or college—has done the same thing."

The article, Glenn claims, clearly left the impression that the incident took place after he became a movie star and the husband of dance, Eleanor Powell.

"I wasn't even known as Glenn Ford then and the movies in those days were something I only paid to see," he laughs.

Glenn, a scoutmaster, upstanding citizen of Beverly Hills and proud father, is one of the few stars who will talk about the scandal stories. Most feel that the best offense against the magazines is no defense. Glenn disagrees.

"I think the public should learn how irresponsible and inaccurate these stories are."

He cites another scandal story about a reported feud with Marlon Brando in Japan while the two were making "Tea House of the August Moon."

Glenn said the story recounted how Marlon and Glenn were riding separate jeeps in a Tokyo parade. Glenn's jeep is supposed to have pulled away from Marlon's and the latter became incensed and threatened to pull Glenn off his jeep.

"Every word of it is ridiculous," says Glenn. "In fact, I have never been in a parade with Marlon in Tokyo, or any place else."

"My last movie magazine story was on the angle of what I liked and what I disliked about my wife works in a building where many lawyers have offices. A sanitation inspector accused him of leaving an envelope and throwing the pieces on Main Street.

Glenn says the article played up the dislikes and cast out the title: "Why Glenn Ford Hates Women."

Bellanti told the court wind had blown the papers from his hand. "Which lawyer told you to say that?" asked Judge Thomas J. O'Donnell.

"No one," answered Bellanti. "I thought of it by myself."

Attorney Benjamin Galatin, who acted as chief counsel, entered a guilty plea for the man. The judge suspended a $5 fine.

Believes More Liberal Loans Forthcoming

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Trimble (D-Ark.) said today he is encouraged over prospects of getting the Farmers Home Administration to be more liberal with disaster loans in the flood-stricken areas of Arkansas.

He said the FHA had agreed to send Deputy Administrator H. C. Smith into the area to investigate the situation.

"I feel encouraged at his development," Trimble said. "I am certain he can find plenty of things that can be done."

Irish Blast Statue of British Officer

DUBLIN (AP)—The battered statue of a British field marshal was blown up in Dublin's Phoenix Park today. The explosion rocked central districts of the Irish capital.

Police said two men were reported loitering around the statue to do the things which the bill would require.

Trimble said he is hopeful that since the FHA doesn't want the bill enacted Smith will find ways of assisting Arkansas farmers within the framework of the present law.
